

UGLY TRUCK

©Dan Beer, Jim McGregor 2005

The paint jobs cracked and faded. It's a long time since it shone.

All four tires are bald, and the chrome is nearly gone.

You gotta pump the brakes three times or you'll slide through stop signs.

It's one ugly pickup truck but that ugly truck is mine.

The mirror on the right side is missing all its glass.

But that ain't no reflection on how my life has come to pass.

The antennae it got broken off but a coat hanger works fine.

It's one ugly pickup truck but that ugly truck is mine.

So when she got the house and car I said "Honey that's just fine."

You can keep the master bedroom suite but that ugly truck is mine.

So when she got the house and car I said "Honey that's just fine."

You can keep the dog, the cat, the fish... but that ugly truck is mine.

BRIDGE            There are times you stand your ground and fight and sometimes you just let go.

Some times cheatin' hearts win out, honey you should know.

So keep the stove, the microwave, keep the stereo.

The Lazy-boy chair, the silverware, that lawyer I paid for.

Oh, keep the china buffet, and keep your deep blue eyes.

Keep my busted broken heart but that ugly truck is mine.

So when she got the house and car I said "Honey that's just fine"

You can keep whatever the heck you want but that ugly truck is mine !!!
